Beginning in the fall semester of 2004, The University of Texas at Dallas is encouraging UTD personnel to send all official email correspondence to students only to the student's UTD email/netid address in an effort to protect the privacy rights of all students.

UT Dallas furnishes each student a Network ID (netid) linked to an email account. The Department of Information Resources provides a method for students to forward their UTD email to other personal or business email accounts. To activate or maintain a UTD computer account and/or to set email forwarding options, go to <http://netid.utdallas.edu>.

The UTD Police Department sends all electronic correspondence only to a student's UTD email address and requires that all official electronic correspondence with the UTD Police be transmitted from the student's UTD email account. This requirement allows University personnel to maintain a high degree of confidence in the identity of the individual corresponding with a university official and in the security of the transmitted information.
