Distance Learning

Success in distance education courses depends on self-discipline and the ability to learn without face-to-face interaction.UT Dallas distance education courses maintain the same rigor and high standards of its classroom courses. Academic progress is established and maintained through regular course participation.

Getting Started with WebCT

Technical Requirement
Minimum technical requirements must be met to enable a successful learning experience.

Course Access and navigation.
Most of our online courses were developed using a web-course tool called WebCT. Courses are delivered entirely online.

WebCT Orientation
For more information on how to access and navigate WebCT, please see the Getting started: Student WebCT Orientation. Within the course site, students can always click HELP on the WebCT Menu Bar to find information and answers. They can also check out the Orientation Center to Online Learning and WebCT provided on WebCT's web site. For more WebCT information and its learning resources, visit WebCT.com

Ask Dr. C
Ask Dr. C is a forum for the newly combined WebCT and Blackboard and is moderated by an expert.
