A Guide to Information Disclosure

The University of Texas at Dallas
Office of the Registrar

Welcome to The University of Texas at Dallas!

As a student at UTD you have certain rights afforded you under the Family Education Rights and Privacy Act of 1974 (also known as the Buckley Amendment, or FERPA). The FERPA regulations were written specifically to guarantee students three primary rights. [§99.7] FERPA guarantees students the right to inspect and review education records. You have the right to know what UTD is maintaining about you. You also have the right to amend those records, if errors are present. FERPA further guarantees you, the student, with the right to have some control over the disclosure of information from your education record.

The following pages contain explanations and forms for the disclosure of student information. A different form must be used if you are a dependent son/daughter or an independent student. Additionally, you have the right to allow third-party individuals/groups/organizations access to certain information. You also have the right to repeal these permissions.

PARENTS CERTIFICATION OF DEPENDENCY FORM

FERPA is a federal regulation and uses federal definitions.

The Family Education Rights and Privacy Act of 1974 provides privacy protection of a student's academic record and limits the release of such records without the student's consent. The Act further provides that the University may disclose such records to parents or legal guardians if the student is a dependent as defined in Section 152 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954.

The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) requires a child who is a dependent be both:

- Under the age of 24
- Claimed on the parent's most recent federal income tax return

The PARENTS CERTIFICATION OF DEPENDENCY FORM must be completed by the parent/legal guardian. If both parents wish to have access, their names must be on the most recent federal income tax return and their signatures must also be on the form.

This authorization, if exercised, is valid for one (1) academic year (ending in spring) and must be renewed annually to remain in effect. Renewals must be received by June 15 of the following year.
