

Jamie Wheeler-Matlock

Overview Highly-skilled composition, rhetoric, and literature professor with over thirteen years teaching experience. Extensive writing, editing, project development, and managerial experience in constantly changing environments. Strong organizational and creative work across a broad spectrum of challenging situations. Consistent success in helping students become effective writers and critical thinkers.

Education

ABD, Literature (Projected dissertation completion 2017) University of Texas -Dallas, Texas Literature	2007
Master's degree, Literary Studies University of Texas -Dallas, Texas GPA: 4.0 (Graduated "With Distinction")	2003
Bachelor's degree, Literature University of Texas -Dallas, Texas GPA: 3.97 (Graduated Summa Cum Laude)	2000

Experience

August 2015 – Present

Adjunct Professor, Discernment and Discourse

Southern Methodist University | Dallas, Texas

Taught DISC 1312 (Sin and Punishment), DISC 1313 (Bad Girls of Literature), DISC 1312 ESL (American Identity and American Dream, DISC 1313 TAOS (O’Keeffe and Native American Literature), DISC 1312 (Athlete Summer Program)

August 2003 - Present

Adjunct Professor, English

Richland College | Dallas, Texas

Taught freshman and sophomore composition courses, British Literature, World Literature, and Technical Writing. Assisted in establishing the college’s writing center and tutored students enrolled in a variety of composition courses on an as-needed basis.

January 2007 – January 2014

Lead Editor

eNotes.com | Seattle, Washington

Writer of professional lesson plans with a clear sequence of activities, cross-curriculum activities, vocabulary enrichment, homework assignments, and exams with answer keys. Writer of over 1,000 quizzes taken by tens of thousands of users. Writer of comprehensive study guides. Writer of "How-To" documents on composition and critical thinking topics. Editor of submissions by junior editors, including lesson plans, study guides, and discussion forum posts. Writer of bi-weekly blog on topics in the Arts. Maintain company’s Tumblr account, finding Arts-related content and communicating with readers.

August 2009-May 2015

Adjunct Professor, English

Collin College | Plano, Texas

Taught freshman and sophomore composition courses, British Literature, World Literature, and Introduction to Novel and Short Story courses.

January 2010 – January 2011

Content Writer

Intent.com | Seattle, Washington

Content writer on topics of lifestyle and healthy living. Seven articles were featured on “Yahoo! Shine”.

January 2008 – January 2010

Content Writer

Chicgalleria.com | Tulsa, Oklahoma

Content Writer of articles on parenting, raising a special needs child, and lifestyles. Several articles were picked up by larger presses, including the Chicago Sun-Times and Livestrong.

January 2004 – January 2006

Teaching Assistant

University of Texas at Dallas | Dallas, Texas

Teaching assistant during Master’s and Ph.D. course work. After completing the required Rhetoric Practicum, taught my own rhetoric classes. Also assisted in Humanities courses, teaching my own sections, as well as assisting in the university’s Arts administration department.

Conference Papers ‘

Southern Utah Shakespeare Conference (2006)

“Wedded to Calamity: Considering Shakespeare’s Romeo and Juliet Against the Popular Conduct Literature of the Renaissance.”

Key West Biennial Hemingway Conference (2005)

“He-Who-Moves-Icebergs: Interpreting Hemingway’s “Indian Camp” from the Ojibwa Point-of-View.”

Community Leadership

- Founder of online forum for parents and people with, and living with, autism.
- Volunteer at L.I.F.T. (Literacy Instruction for Texas)
- Volunteer at Young Life (Special Needs)
- Volunteer for Special Olympics