ARTS 3373 - Printmaking (3 semester hours) Explores traditional and nontraditional techniques of printmaking through the various topics of screen printing, etching, woodcut, collagraph, or monoprint. May be repeated for credit (6 hours maximum). Prerequisite: ARTS 1316, ARTS 2316, ARTS 2380, or permission of instructor. (0-3) T

This course is a studio workshop exploring basic printmaking techniques (such as drypoint, monotype, and woodcut) in black and white and color.

Using our studio printing press or by applying hand printing tools, an artist can create more than one of his or her visual images on several separate sheets of printmaking paper, allowing duplicates, multiples or editions of one image. Also, since most printmaking techniques allow the maker to create duplicate prints of his or her visual image, the possibilities of variations through unique hand alterations to each individual print can be endless and satisfying.

Drawing and painting have historically held an intimate bond with printmaking, although new techniques and technology have allowed contemporary artists to rethink or reapply the medium. The class will discuss the history and current contemporary state of printmaking. Various strategies and concepts of printmaking introduced in the class will allow the student to find a personal way to engage the medium.

Student Learning Objectives/Outcomes

1. Students will improve technical skills and ongoing developmental possibilities in the use of printmaking techniques.
 2. Practice skills in problem solving and investigative thinking, and expressing a personal point of view in a work of art.
 3. Through the study of other artist's work and their own practice, explore how form and content can be expressed through individual experiences, convictions, dreams, and perceptions, whether more social or spiritual.
 4. Analyze and evaluate works of art in class through class critiques of prints completed for each assignment.
 5. Gain fundamental knowledge of important printmakers, historical and contemporary.

3. Preparatory and exploratory investigations assigned, will be graded for evidence of thoughtfulness and intent for discovery.
4. Each project begins with a lecture that explains each assignment and is not repeated. Attendance is important to grasp the painting objectives.
 - i. Projects must be completed by due dates for full credit.
 - ii. All projects are equally important. Expectations rise as the course advances through individual and group critiques.

Course & Instructor Policies

Critique sessions are like exams. Attendance is required for verbal analysis and evaluation of visual projects. If missed, student must set up an appointment with the instructor a later date. If more than one critique session is missed the student's grade will be lowered.

Each project is introduced with a lecture. Slide lectures are not repeated and are necessary for your grasp of the project's objectives. If a student misses more than one slide lecture, their grade could be affected.

The third and each next absence automatically lowers your grade by one letter grade. A total of 5 absences will result in a failing grade. Please note these guidelines apply to all "excused" and "unexcused" absences, such as sickness, work schedule, family commitments, and transportation problems. I am available to provide guidance with challenges and wish to ensure your attendance and successful completion of this course.

Extra credit in the form of additional works of art can only help improve the grade.

The use of cellphones in the classroom is a distraction. Please do not use them in class.

A good work ethic and attendance during class work-days can only help improve the grade. At least a 4-6 hour commitment each week outside of class, utilizing the studios and working on projects, outlines the expectation of this course. Habitual or frequent breaks or long absences from class are discouraged and will affect your grade.

Students must retain all artwork until the end of the semester, even if the work is stored at the student's residence. Some student work may be selected and retained by the professor temporarily or for the student show. Work will be returned to the students or informed of pick up dates.
