General Course Information

Instructional Mode	100% online in eLearning
Technical Requirements	In addition to a confident level of computer and Internet literacy, certain minimum technical requirements must be met to enable a successful learning experience. Please review the important technical requirements on the Getting Started with eLearning webpage.
Course Access and Navigation	This course can be accessed using your UT Dallas NetID account on the eLearning website. Please see the course access and navigation section of the Getting Started with eLearning webpage for more information. To become familiar with the eLearning tool, please see the Student eLearning Tutorials webpage. UT Dallas provides eLearning technical support 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. The eLearning Support Center includes a toll-free telephone number for immediate assistance (1-866-588-3192), email request service, and an online chat service.
Pre-requisites	Students are expected to have a basic grasp of crime and justice issues, such as those that would be covered in an introductory course.
Course Description	The functions of the police, courts, prosecution, and corrections are analyzed within a context of constitutional rights and civil liberties. Major emphasis will be placed on the extent to which civil liberties and procedural rights constrain or limit the criminal justice system's effectiveness in delivering crime control, while at the same time ensuring justice.
Learning Objectives	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Students will be able to describe the leading constitutional provisions governing the treatment of suspected and accused criminals. 2. Students will be able to summarize the decisions of leading Supreme Court cases. 3. Students will be able to summarize various controversial issues in criminal procedure.
Class Participation	Students who fail to participate in class regularly are inviting scholastic difficulty. A portion of the grade for this course is directly tied to your participation in this class. It also includes engaging in group or other activities during class that solicit your feedback on homework assignments, readings, or materials covered in the lectures. Class participation is documented by faculty. Successful participation is defined as consistently adhering to University requirements, as presented in this syllabus. Failure to comply with these University requirements is a violation of the Student Code of Conduct.
Required Texts & Materials	1. J.L. Worrall, Criminal Procedure: From First Contact to Appeal , 7 th ed. (Columbus, OH: Pearson). Revel edition. ISBN: 9780138080372.

Assignments

Case Briefs	You will be required to write four case briefs. See the “Sample Case Brief” and “Case Brief Requirements...” documents in the applicable folder under the Assignments tab in eLearning for details on how to prepare these assignments. They are due by 11:30 pm on the scheduled due date.
Discussion Assignments	You will be randomly assigned to a group of approximately 8 students. Throughout the course, I will post four discussion questions for your group. You are expected to carry on a meaningful discussion related to the topic at hand. See “Discussion Group Requirements...” document in the applicable folder under the Assignments tab in eLearning for more on what constitutes proper discussion. Then one of you (the “chair” for that week) will prepare a group response to submit by the due date.
Revel Exercises	You will complete one quiz and one shared writing assignment in each book chapter. These are accessed through the Revel link. Note that quizzes are 20 questions each (1 point per question). One attempt is given. Shared writings are each worth 5 points.
