Course Pre-requisites, Co-requisites, and Restrictions

An audition is not necessary to participate in MUSI 2113.501 Pep Band, which is a music performance class. Prior musical knowledge is necessary; and a pre-requisite would be a demonstration of previous performance competence with the ability to play in both a solo and ensemble setting on a wind or percussion instrument.

Course Description

MUSI 2113.501 Pep Band is a performance class. This course will introduce students to traditional, popular, and participative music in order to promote UT Dallas spirit.

Students in MUSI 2113.501 Pep Band will perform in at least four required events. These events may include Pep Rallies, Sports Events, university functions, and performances.

Students should be able to demonstrate an understanding of the descriptive, interpretive, and evaluative elements of criticism in music works performed. This is a one-credit course. You may take this class 9 times.

Student Learning Objectives/Outcomes

Students will be expected to identify and discuss the major elements of Popular and Participative Music such as harmony, melody, form, timbre, interpretation, texture, rhythm, and dynamics as they pertain to performance practice. Students will be expected to compare and contrast the fundamental characteristics of the styles and elements of music and will be evaluated through a final event, a research paper, class participation, and analyses of musical performances. This should result in a better understanding, and in turn, a greater appreciation of performing music in a concert setting.
