COURSE DESCRIPTION:

Even though we experience family life as individuals, our decisions and choices are influenced by the social environment in which they occur. In this course, we will examine the family from a sociological perspective. By using recent sociological research and other empirical data on the family, we will gain a deeper understanding of one of society's most pervasive social institutions. In the first half of the semester, we will explore what is meant by "family," and how this differs across race, class, gender and sexuality. We also will examine the diversity of family patterns over time and how they continue to evolve today. In the second half of the course, we will focus on decisions related to love, sex, relationships, marriage and parenthood. While these choices are deeply personal, they are influenced by social, cultural, historical, and even political factors. We also will discuss the complications of marriage and parenting like divorce and remarriage.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

By the end of this course, students should be able to:

- Understand the sociological perspective and methods of sociological inquiry.
- Identify essential theories, concepts, and research used in sociology to analyze the family.
- Think critically about the diversity of families, including how experiences are shaped by race, class, ethnicity, gender and sexual preferences.
- Analyze marriage and family norms and dynamics with a focus on how macro level factors are connected to interpersonal or micro level influences.
- Discuss causes and consequences of sociologically relevant problems within contemporary families

REQUIRED MATERIALS:

TEXTBOOK

Nijole V. Benokraitis, Marriages and Families Census Update (7th Edition)
Pearson, 2011
ISBN: 9780805006731

Also available as an eTextbook through CourseSmart.

This book is also available for rent.

Additional readings will be available on library reserve or eLearning.

CLICKER:

Students are expected to have a clicker by Week 2 and bring it to every lecture session for the duration of the semester. A clicker is an audience response device that resembles a small calculator. This allows you to provide real-time feedback to your instructor during class. Class summary results are displayed graphically, providing students and the instructor a gauge as to how well the class is grasping the material as well as providing documentation of attendance and class participation. You will use the clicker in class to take course-relevant quizzes and evaluate the debates. You can purchase (and sell back) your clicker at the UTD Bookstore.

CLASS FORMAT AND INSTRUCTOR'S EXPECTATIONS

This course will consist of lectures, quizzes, discussion, student-led debates, and a variety of assignments to be completed both inside and outside of class. Completion of assigned readings is a key requirement of this course. It is important to read and become familiar with the material before coming to class so that we can discuss key ideas. Other class requirements include three exams and a 10-page research paper. Detailed instructions on the research paper will be provided in class and posted on eLearning. The exams will consist of essay, multiple choice, and/or short answer questions.

CLASS DISCUSSION

This class will include extensive in-class discussions of the readings, and active participation is encouraged. However please note that we will be discussing sensitive issues that might make some students uncomfortable. We will read texts and watch videos that may explore sensitive topics. The expectation is that you will be able to watch videos and read assigned texts, and discuss them in an academic manner. Please come and see me if you have any questions, concerns, or special needs.

CLASS DEBATES

Marriage and family-related topics often elicit very strong opinions. This semester, we will explore various issues in a debate format using empirical data as evidence. Debate teams made of four to six students (two or three on each side of an issue) will take part in a formal debate in front of the class on their assigned day. They then will take questions raised by the class. More details on the debate format will follow in class.

RESEARCH PAPER

Each of you will be required to complete one 10-page research paper. You will be able to choose from a variety of topics related to family. More detailed information on the research papers will follow in a separate handout. Keep in mind that the quality of your writing will be an important component of your grade, therefore you might want to allow time to visit the UTD Writing Center for assistance. For more information or to schedule an appointment, visit <http://www.utdallas.edu/GEMS/writing/index.html>

QUIZZES AND EXAMS

Quiz questions will be incorporated into the lecture, and your grade for that portion of the course will be calculated based on your clicker responses. You also will have three exams with essay, multiple choice, and/or short answer questions. They will cover only the material since the last exam (i.e. non-comprehensive).

MAKE-UP EXAMS AND LATE ASSIGNMENTS

The dates of exams and due dates for other assignments are listed on the class schedule. Make-up exams will only be given for legitimate reasons (for example, illness) and with proper written documentation. If you fail to take an exam or turn in an assignment without a reasonable excuse, you will receive a "0" for that portion of the course.

INCOMPLETE GRADE POLICY

As per university policy, incomplete grades will be granted only for work unavoidably missed at the semester's end and only if 70% of the course work has been completed. An incomplete grade must be resolved within eight (8) weeks from the first day of the subsequent long semester. If the required work to complete the course and to remove the incomplete grade is not submitted by the specified deadline, the incomplete grade is changed automatically to a grade of F.

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY

The faculty expects a high level of responsibility and academic honesty from students. Because the value of an academic degree depends upon the absolute integrity of the work done by the student for that degree, it is imperative that a student demonstrate a high standard of individual honor in his or her scholastic work.

SCHOLASTIC DISHONESTY

Any student who commits an act of scholastic dishonesty is subject to discipline. Scholastic dishonesty includes but is not limited to cheating, plagiarism, collusion, the submission for credit of any work or materials that are attributable in whole or in part to another person, taking an examination for another person, any act designed to give unfair advantage to a student or the attempt to commit such acts. Plagiarism, especially from the web, from portions of papers for other classes, and from any other source is unacceptable and will be dealt with under the university's policy on plagiarism. Your research papers will be checked on TURN IT IN.

EMAIL ACCOUNT

Please be sure that you know how to access your UTD email account and can check it regularly.

The university provides students with free email accounts in order to maintain a high degree of confidence in the identity of individuals corresponding and the security of the transmitted information. Therefore, the university encourages all official student email correspondence be sent only to a student's UT Dallas email address and that faculty and staff consider email from students official only if it originates from a UTD student account.
