Course Description

Today's economic trend is business beyond borders. We are witnessing an era of internationalization as a result of advanced communication and transportation technologies, and ease of trade barriers. By introducing the concept and dynamics of international business, this course specifically examines the main players of this phenomenon: multinational corporations (MNCs). Managers require complex tools and unique capabilities to be more competitive in international business. They need to effectively respond to international market opportunities while mitigating the risks of failure. Adopting a truly global perspective of management, this course presents current thinking in international business theory and practice. Topics covered include international trade and investment theories, country environments (e.g., political, legal, financial, and economic), culture, foreign direct investment, international strategy, and corporate ethics.

Student Learning Objectives/Outcomes

1. cross-cultural differences in an international business context; demonstrate understanding of organizational & interpersonal implications using relevant cultural frameworks.

2. human values and the ability to make judgments based on ethical considerations in areas affecting or affected by international business such as bribery/corruption, employment practices/labor conditions, contract disputes, intellectual property rights, and environmental degradation.

Group Projects

1. You will form groups of 2 to 3 people (this may change depending on class size) and work over the course of the semester on this group project as well as the Business Strategy Game.

2. You shall have a different group of two individuals with which you shall pick a multinational corporation (MNC) and a country in which it might expand. You shall write up a two page single spaced overview of the country and make copies of the handout for each class member. No two groups shall be able to present on the same country.

3. You shall have a different group of 2 individuals in which you shall complete a group paper on values [either the Rokeach Values Survey or Allport Study of Values], ethics [Ethics Position Questionnaire of Forsyth], and cultural differences [Hofstede model is preferred but other models such as GLOBE or Huntington's Models are ok as well] which shall examine the research on the relationships between these topics. Your group paper has the same requirements and goes through the same processes as your individual research paper.

Peer Evaluation

Your group project grade will be based on the quality of the group's work. Part of your learning experience is managing the coordination of tasks required to create a good product. Your grade will also be based on each individual's assessment of the relative contribution of each group member (peer evaluation). Each group member will evaluate all the members (including him/herself) for their contribution to group work on a scale from 0 to 5. Then the participation score will be multiplied to the score the group gets from the group project (both written and oral presentation) :

0% for 0 (did not contribute) 60% for 1 (extremely unsatisfactory) 70% for 2 (very unsatisfactory) 80% for 3 (unsatisfactory) 85% for 3.5 (neither satisfactory nor unsatisfactory) 90% for 4 (satisfactory) 95% for 4.5 (very satisfactory) 100% for 5 (extremely satisfactory)

For example, if a group gets 16/20 for the written and 4/5 for the presentation and an individual in that group gets an average of 3 from the peer evaluation, then the actual grade for that person in group project will be $20/25 * 80\% = 16/25$, not 20/25.

Individual Research/Literature Review Paper

You will write 1 individual paper in this course. It shall be a research/literature review paper.

You shall review at least 15 peer-reviewed academic articles in an area of international business in order to examine relationships previously found in empirical research and write a paper with a MINIMUM of 16 pages. You shall include use an extended abstract from Emerald Group Publishing.

After the abstract you shall include an Introduction, a literature review, and suggestions for future research based upon your examination of the literature. Paper should go through two peer review processes. If the paper has fewer than 16 pages or fewer than 15 peer reviewed references it shall be assigned a grade of 0. Typically it takes around 20 pages with 20 or more peer reviewed papers to earn an A. Unacceptable papers are invited to be revised and resubmitted. It is turned in through e-learning for Turnitin.com and through another site for peer review.

Outline example of extended abstract

Purpose- This study examines customer service levels of high tech Chinese entrepreneurs in the health care and hospitality industries utilizing the Big Five Personalities Scale (Korzaan and Boswell, 2008) that includes agreeableness, conscientiousness, emotional stability, extraversion, and openness to experience and compares them to American entrepreneurs in the same fields.

Design/methodology/approach- The data was collected both face-to-face and via survey instrument. Their personalities were assessed via survey instrument while their customer service oriented behaviors were measured face-to-face through direct observation with trained raters.

Findings- The findings showed Implications of anticipating employees' behavioral response, the need to address cultural and social differences, and possible employee reward systems are addressed.

Originality/value/contribution- The current study is original in that it uses multiple methods to collect data allowing for a comparison across industry groups for managers and entrepreneurs within China. Primary data of this type is difficult to obtain in China. We contribute to the literature by showing that different industries may have different requirements in terms of the relationship between personality and customer service levels among managers.

Introduction - 2 to 3 paragraphs about why managers would care about the topic.
